

Figure 3. Characterized Sites of Histone Acetylation

Histones are mostly acetylated at lysine residues located in the amino termini of H3 and H4, with the exception of H3K56 localized in the globular domain. The proteins that express binding specificity to acetylated histones are shown.